Multiple monitors

Note: You cannot use multiple monitors with a Mac mini that is dated before late 2014.

Only PressProof supports multiple monitors. If you use two or more color monitors connected to one computer, all the monitors must be the same model from the same manufacturer (for example, Eizo CG247W) and from a single production run.

To support any dual monitor, two dual-link DVI, or two Mini DisplayPorts, or two HDMI ports must be available.

To use multiple monitors, you may need to install additional video cards. You must use the correct video card to drive your monitors. Otherwise, your display may be incorrect and performance may be slow when panning.

For information about the correct video cards to use with your color monitors, see the Apple Web site at <http://www.apple.com> or contact your Apple dealer.
