Pages on press runs

Every content page on a press-run layout has a corresponding template page that defines the placement of its content on the sheet and within the final trim box. You control the details to preview, and you can edit page properties directly in the layout or the Properties pane.