Generating final output

Follow the instructions in Starting a process and choose a final output process template.

Tips:

- Before making plates or film, prepare imposition output and, optionally, approve all proofs.
- Select signatures in the Signatures view.

Notes:

- If you are using TIFF Direct and want to resend a job to output with different output process template settings, you should create separate output process templates for each case with different file naming conventions (Processed File options section > Use Custom File Naming check box and Filename Template box) and/or different device paths (Device section > Device Path).
- If you are using both TIFF Direct and standard TIFF connectivity, you should create separate output process templates for each type of connectivity with different file naming conventions (Processed File options section > Use Custom File Naming check box and Filename Template box) and/or different device paths (Device section > Device Path).
