work and tumble

A method of printing in which one side of a sheet of paper is printed and then the sheet is turned over from gripper to back and the same plate is used to print the second side. Each sheet is cut in half to give two copies.