

Advanced layouts review

1. A come-and-go press run:
    - a. Flows through the same press run twice
    - b. Numbers the template pages so that the run list flows through the first section in run-list sequence
    - c. Numbers the template pages so that the second section flows through in the reverse sequence
    - d. All of the above
  2. A layout with multiple sections can only contain unique product sections.
    - a. True
    - b. False
  3. To impose a 64-page job using four webs to print the job, you should start by creating a section of:
    - a. 8 pages
    - b. 16 pages
    - c. 4 pages
    - d. 32 pages
-
1. A come-and-go press run:
    - a. Flows through the same press run twice
    - b. Numbers the template pages so that the run list flows through the first section in run-list sequence
    - c. Numbers the template pages so that the second section flows through in the reverse sequence
    - d. All of the above
  2. A layout with multiple sections can only contain unique product sections.
    - a. True
    - b. False
  3. To impose a 64-page job using four webs to print the job, you should start by creating a section of:
    - a. 8 pages
    - b. 16 pages
    - c. 4 pages
    - d. 32 pages