black generation strategy

A method of determining how much black ink—versus a combination of cyan, magenta, and yellow—is used to generate a particular color.