

Clients

The client software is called Workshop. This is the main user interface to the Prinergy Workflow system. It lets you create, edit, and monitor jobs.

A client computer is a computer that runs Workshop. A Prinergy Workflow system can have any number of client computers; multiple client computers can access your system at the same time.