

Changing the color of your annotations

You can change the color of your annotations so that they don't blend in with the color of the underlying image or so that they look different from the annotations of other users.

1. In Smart Review, on the right pane, click Annotations.

Note: You must have a task selected for the annotation tools to be available.

2. In the annotations list, right-click one of your annotations.
3. In the color pallet that appears, select the required color.
