

Setting your preferences

You can set default values for various settings in the Preps software. Define your preferences for the current session, and store the settings in a profile.

1. Open the Preferences dialog box:
 - In Mac OS: Select Preps > Preferences.
 - In Microsoft Windows: Select Edit > Preferences.
2. Set preferred values on each tab as needed.

The default values appear in various areas of the software where they are typically editable for a specific purpose, without Preferences changing the stored default values. You can only change the default values in the Preferences dialog box.

Next: You can store different combinations of settings in custom profiles.
