

License preferences

If you purchased a Site license, you can use it for an unrestricted number of multiple stations at your site. After you set up one station with the site license dongle, license the other stations by configuring this preference in the TIFF Assembler Plus software on each station.

Host name/IP address

Type the name of the station that has the site license dongle and click Connect.

Read spots from license station (read only)

If you want to use a standard library—located on the station with the site license dongle— for displaying spot colors, select this check box. Any additions or edits made to the Spot Color Library must be done in the TIFF Assembler Plus running on the license server.
