

Rule sets

Rules are always part of a rule set. Although most rule sets contain only one rule, you can group several rules into the same rule set. This makes it possible to use the rules as a group. For example, if you want to use a specific set of rules for one customer, put all of the rules into one rule set and apply the rule set to the customer's job. When you enable a rule set, you enable all of the rules in the set.
