

base color

A layer of ink (usually white) applied to a printing surface before printing, to provide an opaque background for the inks. Base colors are commonly used on packaging materials such as cellophane, glass, plastic, and metal.