

rendering intent

The compression method—a mathematical algorithm—used when mapping and translating colors from one color gamut to another. It allows for compression of out-of-gamut colors into the color capability of the press used.