template

An element that defines the processing that a file will undergo. The template definition includes one or more operations in a specific sequence.